

Pressinformation – raumplus presents the Sliding TV Door

THE MULTI-TASKING DOOR

It is a sliding door and media center in one. The latest raumplus development elegantly combines interior design with entertainment. A flat-screen monitor incorporated into the door panel allows the closet door and room divider to be used as a TV or computer monitor. After its premiere at the IMM 2019, in April the »Sliding TV Door« won the Red Dot Award 2019 in the category product design and design quality.

Sophisticated undercover entertainment for a living room, bedroom, or teen's room. All locations where the trend is clearly towards having multiple media options available, however kept discreetly out of sight instead of dominating the space. High-performance, compact Bluetooth speakers take the place of a stereo system, while flat screen TVs blend into media units when not in use. raumplus has responded to this trend with its latest sliding door, incorporating a TV/computer monitor into the minimalist design. The monitor, with a screen diagonal of 55 inches maximum and a weight of 25 kg, is installed through the rear of the door panel. A comprehensive choice of colors and materials are available for the panel, allowing it to be coordinated with the room's interior design.

The same applies for the sliding door system's profiles, also available in various models. They provide the door panels with their elegant frames and, in addition to this, also conceal the cables required for the integrated media program. It can be combined with numerous raumplus series based on the 34 and 42 systems, such as the S1200. The only requirement is that the door height is between 135 and 275 cm and the width between 90 and 150 cm (equivalent to a 55-inch screen). The monitor's infrared sensor is hidden in the surround, making a Bluetooth remote control necessary – a contemporary option that allows users to easily activate and control music and movies or the Internet and games from their chair, bed, or sofa. The »Sliding TV Door« is a modern add-on version of a top-class sliding door, delivering an attractive extra that supplements its core competences – room division and privacy. A multi-talent that can be incorporated into an interior design for a low-key but high-end entertainment experience.

Should you publish this article we would be grateful if you could name raumplus as the manufacturer.
